

MSc International Shipping and Logistics

SOLENT UNIVERSITY

Southampton/UK

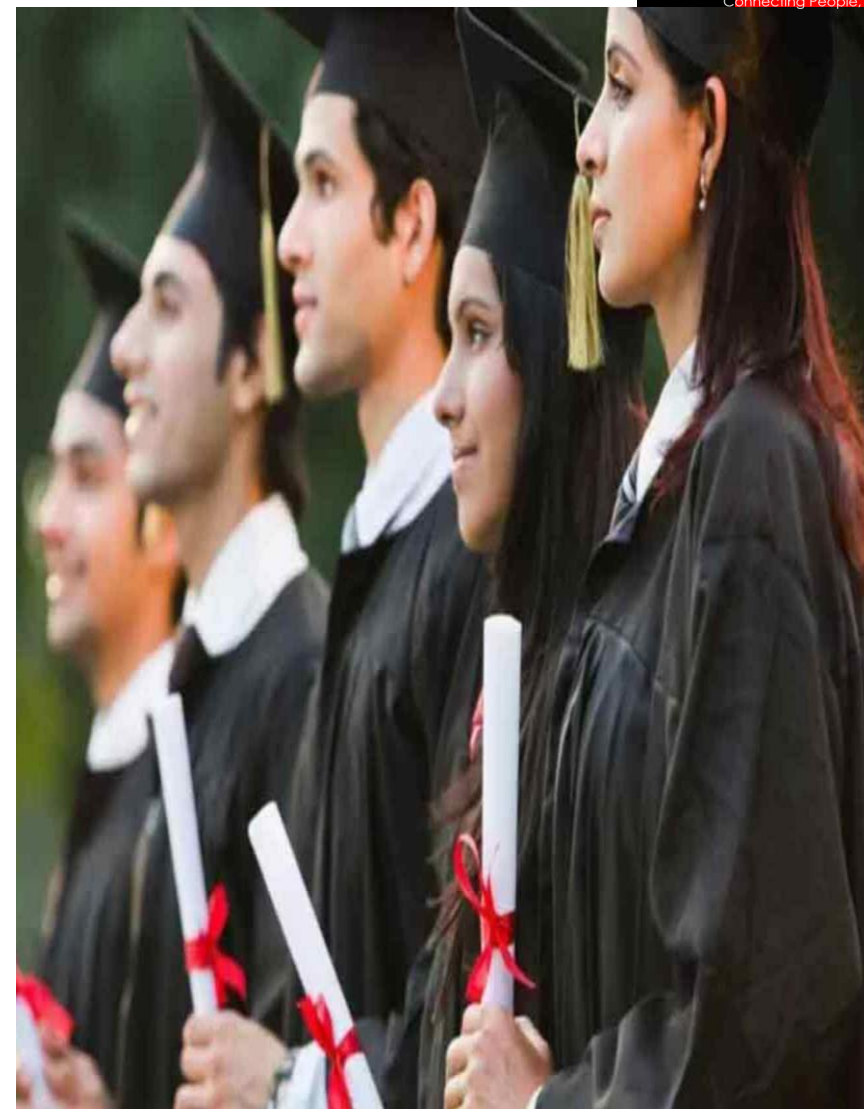

Introduction:-

- Over 90 per cent of the world's goods are transported by sea, making shipping and shipping logistics a vital part of world trade. Solent University's international shipping and logistics master's degree will help you develop the key skills and knowledge required to tap into this exciting, global industry.
- Shipping managers in the current marketplace need to understand all aspects of international supply chain management. As the shipping industry evolves towards an integrated, multimodal, door-to-door logistics approach, such knowledge becomes increasingly important.

Core modules

➤ Maritime Management

This module blends the complementary subjects of strategic management and economics in the context of maritime and logistics organisations and the wider market environment.

➤ International Maritime Law

This module provides the opportunity for the student to critically evaluate the development, aims and applications of international maritime law.

➤ Maritime Operations and Transport

This module is aimed at delivering a highly intensive programme of study that will review specific requirements for these different vessels and the factors that influence the trade routes and drive the markets.

➤ Economics of International Trade and Shipping

This module holds the key to international maritime management studies; as economics is the pivot on which global trade and shipping revolves.

Core modules

➤ Research Methods and Proposal

The module provides the opportunity to develop and carry out research applied to an area relevant to the programme of study and in an area of personal interest to the student and which is also relevant to a student's future career.

➤ Supply Chain Management

This module focuses on the global supply chain and logistics networks and the shipping industry's role within it.

➤ Operational Risk Management

This module aims at providing students with a practical understanding of the objectives and principles of risk assessment, and guide them through the process of risk management.

➤ Project

Maritime professionals need to be skilled in identifying and analysing problems to lead changes in policy or practices. You'll develop these skills by identifying, planning and implementing research in your chosen area, and analysing and communicating the findings.

Accreditations:-

Times Higher Education Most Improved Student Experience Award

In 2015 the University won the Most Improved Student Experience Award at the Times Higher Education Awards. The award is based on student votes from the Times Higher Education's Student Experience Survey, where up to 20,000 students are polled by a specialist student market research agency to rate academic reputation, teaching, social life and facilities of their universities.

Chartered Institute of Public Relations (CIPR) regional PRide Community Relations award

In November 2017 Solent's Showcase Gallery's Small Faces Exhibition won the CIPR regional PRide Community Relations award. The exhibition saw over 7,000 postcard sized self-portraits drawn by people of all ages and walks of life – from 2 to 92 – and every submission was displayed.
